Earnest Discourse Is Given By Speaker At Tabernacle

TENT FILLED TO HEAR ADDRESS

"Trial Of Jesus" Will Be Subject Tonight At The Revival

Announcements
5 p. m. Young Woman's meeting. 7:30 p. m. Song service followed by sermon, Subject "The Trial of Jesus from a Legal Standpoint." The Bar Association invited to sit as a Jury.
Mother's leave your babies at the Y. M. C. A. Nursery.

The large tabernacle was filled to overflowing Sunday night when Evangelist Ham spoke from the text Gal. 6:7 "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

"There is a universal law that everything brings forth after its kind. Who soweth into the field of the flesh shall reap corruption, who soweth into the field of the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. Many people are deceived as they think they are sowing to the Spirit when they are not."

"A certain Sunday school superintendent advocated open bar rooms as preferable to blind tigers when a year later his own son cut the throat of the bar maid. The reaping will be until the day of death. He that covereth his sin shall not prosper. Sin in the night shall bloom in the day. A man took young man into sin, introduced him. The young man married his daughter and he reaped an abundant harvest of the results of that night of sin."

The Reaping Is With Great Increase
"In one of our meetings 38 infidels were converted to one family. These were traced back to one man four generations back. Read the history of the Kings and you will find that the family of bad kings disappear in four generations. David committed adultery and murder and, in his old age, he reaped a terrible harvest of the same sins among his own sons and daughters. Jacob deceived and reaped a thousand fold. If Jacob and David did not escape will you?"

"In Danville, Va., Sam Jones tried to get a merchant to line up against the saloon 'no' he said, I have a wife and a daughter, I nor they will drink." But soon after that a train was wrecked by a drunken engineer and both wife and daughter were killed. The biggest mistake business men ever do is not to support spiritual work. Take the churches out of this town and your business will go to ruin. God holds you responsible for everything you do. When your boy and girl go wrong its your harvest. When you find you have married a woman of your own stripe you are reaping your harvest. If you visit other men's wives are you surprised that your wife received the attention of other women's husbands?"

"Belgian rubber hunters drove and persecuted and ravished the natives in the Congo to make them bring in more rubber and German soldiers ravished women and deported her men to make guns to shoot down their own people. 'The harvest is certainly coming, you'll reap whatsoever you sow.' America is importing infidels to teach in our schools. What will America's harvest be?"

Two thirteen year old girls were arrested and jailed from the school room. The mother had gone to every dance and had kept them under her eyes but one had made dates with fourteen boys and had stolen out while mother slept. Mother reaped what she sowed. A son was arrested as a prominent family sat at dinner. The mother was frantic and said 'son you have been gambling and now you are arrested for embezzlement.' 'Yes' he said 'and you taught me to play cards right here. It's your fault.'

He got away with his bluff.

DECISION ON MERGER CASE DUE THURSDAY

Hearings Terminated Last Night After Godbey Speech

AUTHORITIES ARE CITED IN THE CASE

Night Session Is Held To Enable Court To Finish The Case

The hearing on the quo warranto proceedings brought in connection with the Patterson merger bills, was terminated last night between nine and ten o'clock when Judge James E. Horton, who began the hearing at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning, announced that the court would adjourn and that on Thursday at 8:30 o'clock a. m. he would call those together who are interested in the hearing.

It is presumed that on Thursday morning Judge Horton will announce his conclusions as to the constitutionality of the merger bill.

The last of the attorneys to appear in the noted case was E. W. Godbey, whose brief was a comprehensive recital of the legal points involved in case as interpreted by that able lawyer.

The hearing last night was held because attorneys had not completed their arguments during the hours set for the court during yesterday afternoon. The hearings of the afternoon lasted much longer than is usual, the case, it being almost dark and well after six o'clock, when Judge Horton delayed the speech of Attorney Harris, with the statement that supper time had arrived.

After some discussion as to the time the night session should open, it was agreed that 7:30 o'clock should be the hour.

Eyster Followed Callahan.

When Attorney Callahan had completed his speech near three o'clock Monday, Charles H. Eyster asked the attention of the court to his statement of the law and the facts in the merger case, as understood by that attorney. Mr. Eyster stated that the whole state was concerned in the people of this community and said that the legislature was well within its rights in directing the affairs of cities.

This attorney reminded the court that the burden of proof rested upon those who had complained of the merger bill, and that the court must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the unconstitutionality of the bill before under the law he could declare it unconstitutional.

Col. Tennis Tidwell followed Mr. Eyster. This attorney as well as his colleagues made an exhaustive statement of the case. Many decisions of courts both in this and other states were cited by Col. Tidwell.

A. J. Harris, who is credited with much of the legal work of drawing the merger bill, spoke at length in its support. A notable feature of Mr. Harris' address was an extended reference to the proceedings of the constitutional convention held some 16 years ago, in which he read excerpts from the speeches of the men who made the present state constitution.

Judge John C. Eyster was present in the court room during the afternoon and frequently consulted with attorneys supporting the constitutionality of the merger bill, but he made no argument before Judge Horton.

MACON'S FLOGGING CASES ARE BEGUN

Dr. Yarbrough Is First Defendant To Be Put On Trial

WHIPPING BOSS IS ALLEGATION

Many Witnesses Are In Court As Hearings Begin Tuesday

(By Associated Press.)
MACON, Ga., Sept. 11—The cases of Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, J. E. Bloodworth and J. D. Patrick, charged with rioting, were called for trial by Solicitor Roy W. Moore, when city court convened this morning.

Former Governor Hardwick was among the witnesses whose names were called.

Dr. Yarbrough has been accused of being "The whipping boss" of Macon. Bloodworth and Patrick, the latter being a former deputy sheriff in municipal court, are charged in the case to be tried today with participating in the whipping of J. F. Mills, a chiropodist, who since he was flogged twice during the year 1922, has moved away from Macon.

Mills was in court, however, when his name was called.

Mrs. Lynnwood Bright, of Atlanta, was among the witnesses called. Mrs. Bright's husband was one of the men alleged to have been victims in the flogging.

The names of 56 state witnesses, including a dozen or more women, reported to be relatives of flogged persons. The defense then began calling the names of witnesses, among said to be character witnesses, among them ministers.

The Solicitor announced the case of Dr. Yarbrough would be tried first.

The jury finally selected was composed of 12 men who swore under oath in court that they were not members of the Ku Klux Klan, that they had never made application for membership. The question was propounded to each talesman, over the objection of defense attorneys. A total of 23 talesmen were examined.

CARBON HILL HIT BY BIG FIRE LOSS

(By Associated Press.)
CARBON HILL, Ala., Sept. 11—A large part of the business section of Carbon Hill lay in ashes today following a fire late last night in which seven business houses were destroyed by flames. The total loss is estimated at $45,000.

All the stores and business houses that burned were frame buildings and in spite of three streams of water playing upon the blaze only the brick building of another store saved the city from a worse loss.

Stores suffering the worst loss were: S. H. Karrh, dry goods and groceries, $8,500, Frank Sids, general merchandise, $4,000, Frank Welkos, shoe store and repair shop, $4,500, S. R. Fowler, general merchandise, $8,000, R. H. Gibson, barber shop, $3,500, R. H. Gibson, restaurant, $4,000; R. H. Gibson, fancy groceries, $4,500.

ATHENS COLLEGE OPENED TUESDAY

ATHENS, Ala., Sept. 11—Athens College held its eighty-first formal opening exercises in the auditorium of the Music hall Tuesday morning at ten o'clock. Dr. B. B. Glasgow, the versatile President, was at his best in presiding over the meeting.

Dr. W. P. McGlawn, presiding Elder of the Decatur district, read a part of the fifth chapter of Matthew and led the opening prayer. After this, the president announced there was no set address for the hour but many good friends of the college were present and would give words of interest. Dr. J. S. Chadwick of Roanoke, Ala., Hon. Fred Wall of Athens, Rev. Henry Hurst of Tuscaloosa, and Mayor C. W. Sarver of Athens were among the speakers of the morning.

An appropriate musical program was rendered by Prof. C. Fuller, Mrs. Nolan and Mrs. Rollow, members of the faculty in the department of music. The college girls sang with lots of "pep" one of their college songs.

Some of the parents who were present to enter their girls into the College were introduced as follows: Henry Hurst of Tuscaloosa, Mr. Johnson of Corpo Crista, Texas, Dr. Box of Birmingham, and others.

One of the most pleasing announcements made during the morning was that made by one of the local trustees of the college, Hon. Thos. Sanders. He announced that the new dormitory for the college was a sure thing, that plans were already drawn, the money in the bank to pay for the building and that the work would proceed immediately.

The enrollment is large for this early in the session. Other are coming in on every train.

IN URGENT NEED OF THE PROPERTY

Ford Is Given Ten Days More To Consider New Proposal

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Alabama Power company today agreed to extend the time in which the government must determine whether it will sell to the power company its interest in the Gorgas unit and the transmission line of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., properties.

The extension granted was only for a ten day period until September 24, although Secretary Weeks had asked for a delay until November 1. The extra time was desired that Henry Ford might be allowed to consider fully whether he will eliminate the Gorgas property from the offer he had made to purchase and lease the Muscle Shoals project.

Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power company, in a letter to Mr. Weeks wrote:

"We acknowledge your request of September 6, 1923, that the time be extended from September 14, 1923 to November 1, 1923, for the government to determine whether it will sell to this company its interest in the Gorgas unit and transmission line, located on the lands of the company, or remove the same, which request we understand is made on behalf of Mr. Ford."

"We are in urgent need of these premises, in order to meet the additional demand for power in the communities served by our company and to provide steam reserve for the dry season of 1924. There would be embarrassment to us in delaying the ultimate disposition of this matter to November 1."

"You will recall that our contract with the government has been under public discussion and consideration for several years and it would seem those interested in the contract would have had every possible opportunity to know its terms and conditions."

"We feel, therefore, that in all the circumstances we cannot agree to any extension of the time to the first of November, but in order to accommodate Mr. Ford we will agree to an extension through and including the 24th of September, 1923, for the purpose stated."

NEW REPAIRATIONS SETTLEMENT SEEN

(Associated Press.)
PARIS, Sept. 11—Conversations that are taking place between Jacques de Margerie, French ambassador to Germany, and Chancellor Stresemann, in Berlin, are considered by the French government, as leading toward settlement of the reparations question although it is stated the Chancellor has not yet made a definite offer, either affecting cessation of resistance in the Ruhr or what would be proposed afterward.

The conference between M. de Margerie and Chancellor Stresemann will be continued.

Any proposition received by France from Chancellor Stresemann will be communicated to the other allied governments.

FORD SHOW TO BE HELD IN MEMPHIS

The Daily is advised that the Ford Motor Company working in conjunction with the Ford dealers in the Memphis territory are going to hold a mammoth Ford-Fordson exposition at the Tri-State Fair to be held in Memphis the week of September 22nd to 29th inclusive.

Last year the Ford Show was undoubtedly one of the very best attractions at the fair, creating unusual interest by the many operations so easily performed by the Fordson Tractor such as lighting of the grounds, operating a railroad, baling hay, threshing road grading, etc. It is said that the display this year will be much larger, in fact, one tent 80x20 feet will house many exhibits. Many larger exhibits will have space outside the tent.

Several novel features that will add beauty to the Exposition as well as demonstrations with both the Fordson Tractor and Ford one ton truck are to be incorporated. Demonstrations of the character that the Ford Motor company and the Ford dealers will conduct possess real value for the people residing in the Memphis territory. Expense has not been spared to show a complete understanding of conditions prevailing in both agricultural and industrial activities in this territory and practical solutions are offered to assist in the development of the agricultural and industrial activities throughout the Tri States.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

WILL THE LEAGUE SURVIVE MUSSOLINI?

Long after the recent dispute between the Greeks and the Italians is decided, there will be speculation and discussion as to the effect of the Italian, Mussolini, upon the League of Nations. Nobody would have expected Mussolini to respect the league, although his country was a member of it, for "no thief e're felt the halter drawn, with a good opinion of the law." Force was what made Mussolini, the league was set up to do away with force as the ruling power among men and nations. The league represents the exact antithesis of what this modern "Napoleon" stands for.

It will be a sad day for the world when it appears, as seems likely, that the usefulness of the league has been destroyed. Mussolini will be carried down before long by the very force that exalted him, just as sure as there is retribution in history. If the Italian were a really great man, he might be able to amend the league or to put something just as good in its place, but he is neither great nor good.

The time may come when Mussolini may wish there were a league of peace to protect him from his enemies, for unless all signs fail Mussolini will prove over again that the man who takes the sword will perish by the sword.

Americans who have criticized Mussolini's stand against the league have in turn been criticized by him, because they belong to a country which has officially repudiated the League of Nations. And this thought makes it clear once more, that if Uncle Sam had been standing firmly against force, when Mussolini first thought of an aggressive war, he would probably never have ordered Italian battleships to Corfu.

FIGURES SHOW FRANCE NEEDED TO PROTECT HERSELF AGAINST GERMANY.

Announcement was made in press dispatches Monday that Germany had ordered the people in the territory occupied by Belgian and French soldiers to cease their resistance to the invaders. Should the report be confirmed, it is clear the French have won the battle of the Rhur. Following this report the following is given as the word of a prominent German in Berlin.

"It depends on Premier Poincare now whether Germany is saved. If he rejects our advances I see no other way out. It would mean the most frightful catastrophe recorded in the history of nations."

Laying all sentiment aside, the apparent triumph of the French in their attempt to collect war indemnity will be a satisfaction to most people. When it is remembered that unless France protected herself, she had no protection, her unusual method of self help will be looked over. Only recently an authentic report shows that due to the war France has 1,500,000 disabled in the war to Germany's 1,537,000. In other words, France with a population of only 40,000,000 has practically the same number of ineffectives as Germany which has a population close to 60,000,000. Counting 12,000,000 men for Germany in normal times, she now has an effective force of 9,000,000 while from a normal supply of 8,000,000 France now has only 5,000,000.

Under such conditions it is not strange that the French were fully determined never to give Germany a chance to come back and reorganize another great war.

Take the situation France finds herself in from another standpoint. The United States had 197,000 wounded, but not totally disabled in the war. It cost this country a million dollars a day to care for our war ineffectives; but France has to do ten times as much for her broken soldiers as this country has to do, while we have 110,000,000 to do with and France has only 40,000,000 to take care of her war veterans. The same source these figures came from shows that Italy has 800,000 men disabled in the war, and Great Britain 1,170,000.

THE WORLD TO BE CLOSED TO THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

There be those who believe King Alcohol will be re-enthroned, just as many said they believed the armies of the Central Powers would triumph in the late war.

Those who believe alcohol will regain its old place do not seem to realize the large number of enemies arising daily against the deadly poison; just as those who believed the armies of autocracy would triumph, could not see behind the curtain the vast armies of democracy preparing to combat the spread of autocracy. The larger the area examined in connection with the fight of the "drys" against the "wets" the plainer it appears the "wets" will be unable to hold their own, much less be able to re-enthroned discredited King Alcohol. The following from one of the standard church weeklies will tend to dampen the hopes of those who profess to see the final triumph of a wide open world:

"In most places in Europe the conflict is just starting, and while the issues seem small to the people of a dry nation, the significant thing is that the people are at grips with liquor practically everywhere. England has just adopted a measure to prevent the sale of liquor to persons under eighteen, and is fighting for a local option law; North Ireland recently enacted the Sunday closing law; Scotland is in the throes of more than 150 local option elections. Organized labor in Scotland has taken a strong stand against liquor. The Established Church in many places is indifferent. Turkey's prohibition law will go into effect in the near future according to press reports. Belgium is fighting for a local option law, and has prohibited the sale of spirits in public places. In Bulgaria the local option law that went into effect in 1920 is now being used. In Czecho-Slovakia the sale of liquor is prohibited on election days, and spirits cannot be sold to minors under 18, nor beer to those under 16. A bill for national prohibition is prepared for consideration at the next assembly. In Esthonia and Finland a joint commission is established to prevent smuggling liquor into Finland. France has prohibited absinthe, and an effort is now being made to prohibit spirits. Referendum straw votes in German factories continue to show a majority for prohibition. Local option is their first goal. Holland came within one vote of passing a local option bill in the last parliament. It is believed it will be adopted next year. In Italy the hours for sale of liquor are being limited and serious attempts are being made to utilize the grape industry for other purposes than wine-making. Iceland still stands for national prohibition, but the indefensible boycott against her fish trade by Spain has temporarily destroyed her law. Poland has prohibited the sale of liquor to young people, and enacted a local option law. Russia continues her prohibition against vodka, and all the Soviet treaties permit importation of commodities into Russia except "alcoholic liquor, or which both the importation and manufacture are, or may be prohibited in Russia." Sweden failed to carry national prohibition at the last election, but continues the fight with full confidence of victory. Norway has government control of liquor. National prohibition went into effect in 1921, but France and forced her to rescind it under threat of trade boycott. Strange to say, her big problem is to prevent the smuggling of liquor into the country. Norway adopted the ten mile limit law recently to prevent smuggling. There is a movement under headway to curb, restrict, or destroy liquor in practically every nation, except possibly Spain and Greece. The foes of beverage intoxicants have struck tents and are on the march. There will be no retreat or halt until there is an unconditional surrender of the liquor forces in every nation. A sober world is in sight. Every nation is looking to our country to see if she will make good. The United States is leading the way, and we must not fail in meeting this mighty challenge."

Isn't there an ordinance prohibiting the running of cars and trucks muffled? If those who do so cannot afford the price of a muffler, some should start a "drive" to supply them from the "drive" fund. Better if the police should enforce the muffler ordinance. A sufferer.

Foot Troubles

Most foot troubles are caused by the dislocation of one or more bones of the foot. These distortions bring unusual pressure or strain to the fleshy or tissue parts, affecting nerves of foot and limb. As a result, pains due to foot troubles often extend through the lower limb, hip and back and are frequently attributed to rheumatism, sciatica, neuritis, etc.

Callouses, cramps, aches, a tired-out feeling, and a stiff, clumsy gait are dangerous symptoms of this abnormal condition.

Callouses form on the ball of the foot when displacement necessitates added protection to the underlying structures. To cut these callouses is folly, as they will pile up with double the discomfort.

WEAK FOOT

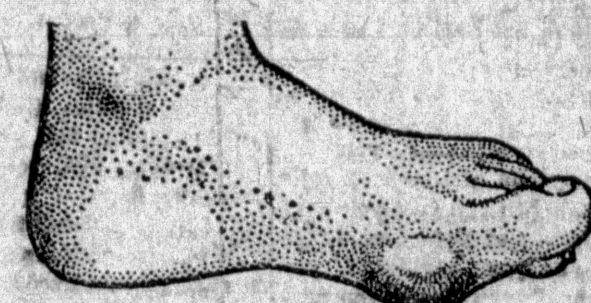

Pain extends through the front and back of the lower limbs. At times the pain increases to such an extent that the patient finds difficulty in walking. This condition is apt to cause a burning or swelling on any part of the foot. In some cases the ankles turn very easily.

CALLOUSES UNDER BALL OF FOOT

In a condition where the skin on the bottom of the foot hardens to such an extent that it becomes very painful. First a burning, stinging sensation under the ball of the foot, after which the skin begins to harden, and gradually grows into very thick callous. If not properly taken care of, corns will form in these callouses.

Second Street

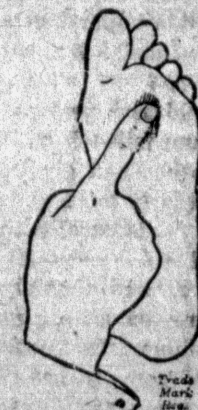

BUNIONS

A bunion is an inflamed condition of the sac that lubricates the joint. It is noticeable by the inflammation, redness, puffiness or swelling of the joint. Pain caused by a bunion at times extends up through the instep and ankle.

A dislocated joint is noticeable by the turning out of the large toe, and slight throwing forward and downward of the head of the bone that joins the large and small toes.

MORTON'S TOE

Very frequently pain is felt in the ball of the foot causing intense stinging or burning sensation. The pain is felt a little back of the fourth toe, although it is liable to affect the foot back of the second or third toes. In some cases the sensation is similar to that of walking on a small marble or hot coal.

LOCAL MASONS WILL WITNESS BIG EVENT

Biggest and most impressive of all ceremonies in the history of Freemasonry in the United States will be the laying of the cornerstone of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial at Alexandria, Va., on Nov. 1, 1923. This occasion undoubtedly will witness the gathering in Washington, D. C., which is just across the Potomac river from Alexandria, of the largest number of Masons ever attending any function. A number of Masons from this city and immediate community will attend the ceremonies. There are now 3,000,000 members of the craft in the United States, with more than 17,000 Blue Lodges scattered from coast to coast. Each of the lodges will have at least one representative at the gathering, and the total attendance is expected to go into hundreds of thousands.

The national capital and its vicinity, already world famous for the imposing beauty of their edifices will have in the George Washington Masonic National Memorial a structure more majestic than any heretofore erected at the seat of the federal government. The site selected for this memorial, the grandest ever erected in honor of any man could not be improved upon. It is on Shooters Hill, on the old Kings' Highway and on the commanding Arlington Ridge, from which a view may be had of the city of Washington and of all the places most frequented by the first president, whose residence was at Mount Vernon, only a few miles distant. The structure itself will be of noble proportions and of wonderful architectural beauty, surrounded by a park of 32 acres, which will give the edifice a proper setting for all time to come.

The memorial will be of enduring granite and when completed will cost $4,000,000. Its dimensions over all will be 230 feet in depth by 160 feet in width, exclusive of steps, terraces and approaches. Its height to the summit of the observation tower will be 200 feet. The architecture is to be classic, its form inspired by the great towers built in the ways of Greece and Rome to mark the entrances to harbors and from whose summits permanent burning flares could be seen for miles at sea, a guide for mariners.

The Memorial Hall in this grand structure will take the form of an atrium, 70 by 100 feet, in which it is proposed to set a statue of Washington. This great hall will have a height of 64 feet, rising to a clerestory above the surrounding portion of the building. It will be flanked by Ionic columns 40 feet high and surrounded by a number of rooms devoted to Masonic interests. The entrance to the edifice will be expressed in a six columned portico of pure doric design. Above the Memorial hall, and forming the second story, will be a museum to house the many priceless relics of the first president now in possession of Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22 of which Washington was the first Worshipful Master. Above the museum will be a third level, and topping the whole will be a covered observation platform, all three levels screened by stately colonnades.

The architects of this memorial are Helme & Corbett of New York, and S. Eugene Osgood of Grand Rapids Michigan, is the consulting architect. The landscape architects are Olmstead Bros., of Brookline, Mass. The memorial had its inception at a meeting of leading Masons in the lodge of George Washington at Alexandria on Feb. 22, 1910. From humble beginnings the present extensive plans have developed, which probably will require a decade for completion. The George Washington Masonic National Memorial will be the center and rallying point for Masons to the United States and of the world for many years to come. The excavation already have been completed and a portion of the foundations laid.

Coach Billie Lavelle, for several years director of athletics at Furman is again in charge and expected to have the flashiest team of the history of the institution.

Athens News

The Secondary Agricultural school of this place opened this morning with a very promising prospect for a great year. Prof. J. M. Atkinson has had charge of the school for several years. He resigned at the end of last session and the board was successful in getting a very fine man to succeed him in the person of Prof. W. G. Johnson of Oklahoma. He has been on the field with his family now for about one month. He has been making many improvements about the college on the campus and buildings. It will look like a new place when all the work begun has been finished.

Prof. Johnson has about him a very excellent faculty this year. Miss Bandy in the department of English, Prof. L. W. Cox in vocational agriculture, Miss Pasely in the department of domestic science, Miss Mildred Brown in department of history, Prof. J. Crutcher, Jr. in science and mathematics. There is the spirit of work about every member of the faculty and the new president and the people of the county expect the school to be a great success this year.

More than two hundred pupils were enrolled on the first day and many more are to be enrolled in the next few days. The parents from various parts of the county were in attendance with their girls and boys on the first morning showing their interest in the work of the school. The citizens of Athens turned out in large numbers to the opening exercises. Among the speakers at the opening were: Dr. J. O. Williams, Dr. B. B. Glasgow, Dr. Thos. Meadows, Mayor C. W. Sarver, Hon. Fred Wall, Hon. Edward Goodrich and Col. M. K. Clements.

The First Baptist Church of Athens is now in a great revival meeting. The Pastor, Dr. J. O. Williams, is doing the preaching. The singing is led by Mr. Charles O. Miller of Blacksville, S. C. Miss Rebecca Ramsey of Alex City is presiding at the piano. Great crowds were turned from the church on Sunday night, there not being standing space in the church for all who came.

One of the features of the preliminary exercises of the Sunday evening service was a visit from the members of the local Ku Klux Klan. Thirty-five members dressed in full regalia following the American flag and the flaming cross filed into the church at 8:50 in the evening and handed an envelope to the pastor. A letter was in the envelope which was read to the congregation. A prayer was then offered by the pastor for the work of the Klan. After this the pastor made appropriate remarks and thanked the Klansmen for a purse of $52.00 new one dollar bills. As the men in regalia began to leave the church, the great chorus sang "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The revival will continue through this week and next week.

Unshaken Testimony

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Decatur. No Decatur resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice told testimony.

Mrs. J. L. Rose, 425 E. Pond Street, Decatur, says: "After I did a hard day's work, especially washing, my back hurt severely across my kidneys. Mornings I was so stiff and sore, it took a lot of effort to get out of bed. I had seen Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and decided to try them. After using Doan's, I had no more of the trouble and I am glad to recommend this remedy to anyone suffering from kidney trouble." (State ment given March 16, 1914.)

On February 7, 1922, Mrs. Rose said: "I have used Doan's for attacks of kidney trouble since recommending them and they have always been reliable. Occasional use of Doan's keeps my kidneys in the best condition and I am glad to confirm my former statement."

PORT ENABLING ACT AGAIN IS DELAYED

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 11—

Postponement of that consideration of the Mobile port enabling bill until the next legislative day was the action of the senate upon motion of Senator Leon Brooks, of Escambia.

Postponement of the port enabling measure was only agreed upon after it had been requested by Governor Brandon and Lieutenant Governor McDowell.

The Senate was again this morning the scene of discussion of editorials in Alabama newspapers. Senator Oliver, of Talladega, attacking an Anniston daily for an editorial in which he said the Lieutenant Governor of Alabama and Senators Garb, of Huntsville, and Adams of Chilton were charged with being unfit for public duty because of unfavorable environment.

The measure regulating highway traffic in Alabama, with an amendment eliminating the section to regulate tonnage and speed of trucks passed in the senate by a 21 to 9 vote.

By a unanimous vote the senate refused to concur with the house on the Foster highway bill, which, amended by the house, provides for the election of a highway commission by the legislature.

Lieutenant Governor McDowell appointed Senators Foster of Tuscaloosa and Ellis of Selma as a committee to confer with the house on the measure.

Both houses witnessed the introduction of many new bills this morning but few of them affected the entire state.

In the lower house a bill to require the labelling of cloth containing wool, the label to set forth the percentage of wool contained, was introduced and a resolution to name the highway from Girard, via Montgomery, to Mobile, the "Jefferson Davis highway."

The Tunstall bill to establish liens in favor of jewelers and watchmakers for work and another regulating auction sales of jewelry were passed.

In the senate among a number of local bills introduced was one by Craft to increase elasticity of bond issues of Mobile county and construction activities of the county.

A measure by Senator Jones, of Conecuh, would require counties to engage engineers to direct work of expending public funds in highway and bridge construction.

In the lower body the agricultural code, prepared by the recess committee on agriculture, is finding opponents and no action is expected on the measure before late today.

Criminal Cases In The Circuit Court

Following its interruption by the quo warranto proceedings held before Judge Horton, the circuit court resumed regular operations this morning with Judge Horton on the bench.

Owing to the severe illness of his mother Circuit Court Clerk James A. Draper was absent from the court room part of the day.

The records of Mr. Draper were kept in part by Judge William T. Lowe, of the Morgan County Court.

One negro, Earl Orr, charged with the murder of his cousin, Sam Orr, in the central part of the county last year, had pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to seven years imprisonment by Judge Horton.

One white man pleaded guilty to violation of the prohibition laws and awaits the sentence of the court.

A large number of jurors have been sworn in to serve at the present term of the circuit court.

No Lifting Necessary with Hotpoint AUTOMATIC IRON

Stop Lifting a Ton During Ironing

The average housewife lifts a ton during the family ironing, raising and lowering the iron from the board to the stand.

This unnecessary work taxes the strength of any woman and makes a household duty, which should be easier and pleasant, a drudgery. The HOTPOINT Iron is so designed as to permit you to simply tilt the iron back on its non-scorching attached stand without lifting the total weight of the iron.

Many other conveniences make HOTPOINT Irons lead the world. We will gladly show you the new model HOTPOINT Iron.

STAR TODAY

"The Love Brand" Roy Stewart's latest starring vehicle for Universal which comes today to the Star theater, has its settings in a country of far horizons.

Much of the play was filmed on the sunlit mesas and wind swept plains of Southwestern California where the atmosphere still presents the romance of the days in the West before its glamour was tarnished by "too many people."

Thousands of cattle and horses graze on the open plains, which offer virtually all of the freedom of the unfenced range of earlier days.

The story was written especially for Stewart by Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal City, and scenarized by Adrian Johnson Stuart Paton directed.

Names Of Candidates In The Daily Contest

interest and momentum. A great many entries have been received from every corner of the city and nearby territory, which fact testifies to the great interest in the popularity of this campaign. Those people who have been thinking of entering the contest should send in their entries and receive the free supplies in the way of book, votes, sheets, etc., as the campaign only lasts nine weeks, closing on November 17 promptly at 8 o'clock.

The great value of the prizes and the large number of prizes have proven very attractive indeed, and the ease with which they have may be won has induced many people to get into the campaign.

There are a great many features of this campaign that especially commend themselves to the public. Of all the new features, probably the one that insures everyone of either winning a prize or being paid for their time is the most popular of all. As has already been announced everyone who takes part in the campaign and makes an effort will receive a cash commission of 10 per cent at the close of the contest if they do not win one of the regular awards. Many people have entered the campaign for the cash commission alone. Many ladies who are tied up at home a part of each day have entered the campaign with this commission in mind as a means of making some extra spending money for themselves to be earned from day to day during the hours they have away from their household duties.

One gentleman yesterday wanted to know if anyone could spend any money to win. There is now, and never will be, but one answer to this question—and that answer is "No—positively no." No one will be allowed to spend a single penny to win any of the prizes under any circumstances. This campaign is not a poker game, nor a horse race. It is simply a sales campaign, a campaign of expansion, if you please. All that The Daily wants is the increased circulation that this campaign will bring. This campaign is not put on with the idea of raising a lot of money. It is the circulation that The Daily is after, and nothing else. So no questionable tactics will be tolerated by the campaign management from anybody. If there are any who have entered the campaign with the idea of buying their way through, or by using money to win a prize, the campaign management advises them now that they should withdraw. For, just the minute any suggestion of their irregularity appears, or any suggestion of money being spent not according to the rules, such candidate will, upon proof, be ejected from the contest, and all votes of such candidate cancelled.

This is going to be a fair and square campaign, with winners those who have done the real work and who secure the most votes, regardless of everything else. The campaign will close just as has been announced and the prizes will be awarded just as announced. This is no "monkey business" contest, so there is nothing under the sun for anyone to worry about except where each, individually, has ambition enough to get an and secure a valuable prize for themselves by just voting for themselves during the next nine weeks. If you have the ambition send in your name to the campaign manager at once, P. O. Box 572, or call 46 and ask for The Campaign Manager.

Local Youth Now A Lay Reader

Dr. T. G. Mundy, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, on Sunday read the license granted by Bishop Coadjutor McDowell to J. Q. Sewell, Jr., to become a Lay Reader in the Episcopal church to his congregation and in the presence of Mr. Sewell.

Rev. Mundy then installed the young Lay Reader, who is later to enter the regular ministry of the Episcopal church.

Mr. Sewell is well and favorably known here having been born and reared in the city. He has been away on business for some time at Birmingham. Dr. Mundy stated that Mr. Sewell was here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Sewell, and would finish his high school course here this year.

Next year it is planned for young Sewell to enter Sewanee University, where he will take an academic course and later the regular theological course of his church.

Health is Wealth

Health is one of the greatest things your family can possess. It brings happiness and success. But health must be safe-guarded by good wholesome foods that are prepared from the purest ingredients. This is especially true of bakings. If they are not properly raised, we all know that they are not easily digested. Many times when self-rising flour is used in place of good plain flour and dependable baking powder—the results are flat, soggy and heavy foods.

Don't take chances! Use a reliable brand of baking powder and plain flour. Then you will be sure of healthful bakings that are easily digested.

Remember, science has never found anything to take the place of the tried and tested method of using plain flour and good baking powder in preparing bakings. Millions of housewives now know by actual experience that many preparations that are claimed to take their place are worthless and dangerous to health. There is no comparison.

Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder, is known to be one sure and positive aid to successful bakings that are always pure, sweet and wholesome.

That's the reason its sales are 2½ times as much as any other brand.

Crows Destroy Thousands of Game Birds

Noted Ornithologist of West Chester Pa., Finds Marsh Hens, Rail Birds, Quail, and Others Among Their Victims. 2500 Egg Shells under 5 Crows' Nests.

By Dr. B. H. WARREN

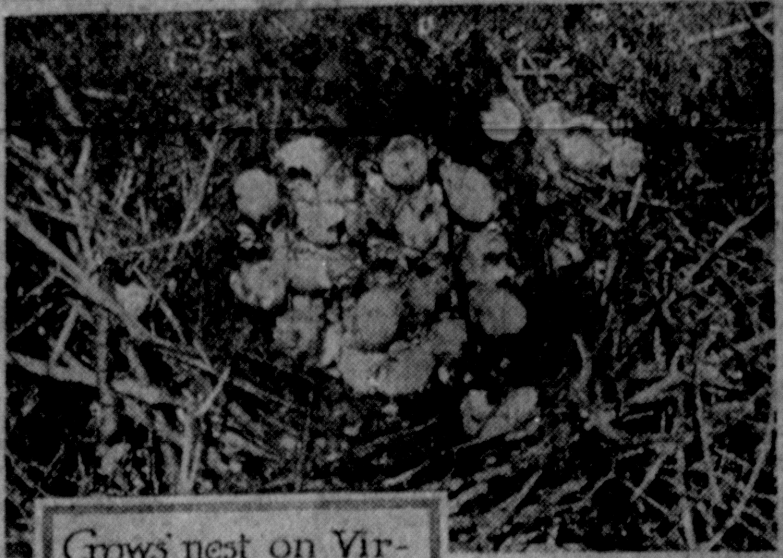

CROWS are doing an incalculable amount of damage in the rich game territories of the eastern shore of Virginia. They are destroying thousands of the young eggs of game birds, including the black (wild) duck, clapper rails, or marsh hens, king and Virginia rails, willets, a larger species of shore birds, quail, and many kinds of birds. They also kill young rabbits and are a constant menace to poultry, devouring the eggs and young.

Recently I visited Assateague, Chincoteague, Revells, Cedar, Mockhorn, Palmer's Beach, Wallop's Bluff, Wallop's and Hog Islands, and numerous marshes about these islands. I also visited Palmer's Point, a narrow strip connected with the main land near Watchaugue. These islands are tidal islands located from a mile and a half to eight miles from the main land. They abound in game. The marshes are the favorite nesting places for clapper rails or mud hens. On many of the marshes black ducks breed plentifully.

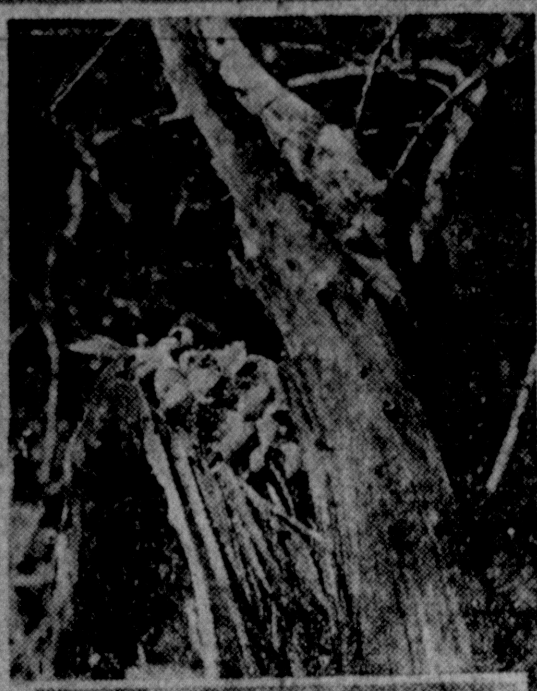

Nests of Useful Birds Raided for Their Eggs

On Cedar Island, I found 5 crows' nests. In an hour and twenty minutes under these five nests and within a radius of a hundred and fifty yards, I found fully 2500 egg shells of game and non-game birds which had been eaten by crows. Three of these nests contained young. Under one of the low cedar trees where there were two crows' nests, one of which contained four young almost ready to fly, I picked up 197 eggs at the base of the tree which covered a space of not more than four feet square. They were piled up. These egg shells were practically all those of mud hens with the exception of about twenty heron eggs.

This trip was made on June 2nd. On June 19th I went back to this island and found seven additional crows' nests, from all of which the young had departed. But under the same tree, containing the two nests, and at the bottom of which were 197 eggs, we found 125 more eggs, with at least 150 more in a radius of twenty-five yards from that

Crows Also Attacked and Killed Young Birds

On a remote section of Wallop's Island, which is probably two and a half miles from the mainland and five miles south of Chincoteague, I found five crows' nests, three of which contained young and two of which contained eggs. Under the nest containing four young nearly ready to fly, I picked up 352 egg shells, most of which were those of clapper rails. Possibly a dozen or fifteen were shells of eggs of chicken and tame ducks. The remains of at least three black (wild) ducks, king or big red rail were also found, and Virginia rail. Among non-game birds, eggshells in this bunch were those of meadow lark, killdeer, red winged blackbirds, a warbler, two kinds of marsh inhabiting sparrow, mourning dove, great bittern, green herons and boat-tailed grackle. In addition, there were found the remains of a number of birds, such as young black coated rails, young herons, several small birds of the sparrow family, young meadow larks, and portions of young chickens.

Woodcock killed by crow.

Under another nest with young, shells, all of which had been eaten there were 153 eggs, chiefly those of clapper rails and a few gulls. On Revell's Island we also found evidence of the predatory and destructive habits of the crow. We visited a part of this island which evidently was not frequented by human beings in the spring and summer season. We detected egg shells broken by crows everywhere. In one place 150 broken egg shells were found under bushes close to woods near salt water marsh. At another place, the nest of a fish crow was located in a large pine tree fully forty feet above the ground. The young had recently left the nest. Twenty-five egg shells and many fragments of egg shells, mostly those of the clapper rail and gulls, were found in a radius of the tree two or three feet below the nest. On the ground all around the tree were shells of eggs of clapper rails, gulls, herons, some willets, a few terns, and several small non-game birds. There were fully 300 eggs under and about this tree.

More than 1000 egg shells and remains of birds collected under five nests of crows at Cedar Island, Va.

Best Time to Attack Crows During Nesting Season

It is evident to any thoughtful person that to preserve game for future generations, it is highly essential that we should establish sanctuaries where game will propagate and be protected from natural enemies. The islands visited are largely owned or controlled by sportsmen's clubs and their keepers have learned from experience to destroy depredating birds and other animals which prey upon the different kinds of game. On islands where natives rear domestic fowls they have learned that to safeguard the inhabitants of their poultry yards, they must destroy vermin and they regularly go out and shoot the crows and their nests. Experience has taught them that it is best to shoot into the crows' nests before they have young, since it is at this period these argus-eyed robbers are most destructive.

BIRTH Born to Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Griggs a 6 pound girl, on September, 9th, 1109, 4th Avenue, South.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—Luxurious homes may mean considerable to human beings but they don't count much against affection with a dog. Louis Amato has spent most of his vacation so far looking for his Boston bull, named "Ritzie." The other day he vowed he had found him, although Peter Taslin explained the dog was his, that its name was "Nickie," and that he had paid ten dollars for him. "Nickie" had all of the luxuries which could accrue to the life of a dog, under Mr. Haslin's ownership. But thirteen year-old Louis went to court to prove his claim. A wise and human judge let the contestants take their places on opposite sides of the courtroom. "Here, Nickie, Nickie," called Haslin at the top of his voice. "Hey, Ritzie, old kid," said Louis, and gave a sharp whistle. In one ecstatic jump, the dog was at Louis' side, Haslin didn't even get a glance. "Ritzie" left the room bounding at the boy's side, ease and beefsteak scorned completely.

"Only a broken neck" will come to be listed among the minor injuries before long, it would seem. Two victims of that one time unfailingly fatal injury are well on their way to complete recovery in one ward of a New York hospital. Rudolph Kohler, a Standard Oil superintendent, and Benjamin Lazaret, twelve years old, both broke their necks diving into shallow water, but modern surgery is making them good as new.

Mrs. George Leitz, of Yonkers, is going to Europe on her wedding trip even if it's golden wedding time before the various nations of the world straighten out her passport. Mrs. Leitz married a subject of Tripoli, in 1922, when Trieste was an Austria province. By marrying an alien she lost her American citizenship, as the law permitting a married woman to keep her own citizenship rights even though married to an alien did not pass until several weeks after the wedding. Now, when her husband did become a citizen shortly after that, the law had passed and consequently, she was still an Austrian, because a woman's citizenship under the new law did not change with her husband's. Then she went to the Austrian counsel to get her passport, and was told that since Tripoli had now become Italian, she would have to seek it there. This was too much, and so the Leitz family has decided to wait ninety days more for a trip, and by that time, Mrs. Leitz can once more become an American in her own name through due process of naturalization.

Politics may be touted as a wearing occupation or even a vocation. But John D. Voorhies, for half a century a Tammany leader in municipal politics, and Commissioner of Elections, celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday by cutting down his regular full-length working day to three hours, and that is the closest approach to a vacation he has taken in 31 years.

Sticks became so common an accessory of woman's costume that the novelty seekers have abandoned them in favor of an attenuated H made of light wood, upon the cross-section of which sits their pet parakeet or cockatoo. I saw one on Fifth avenue yesterday and it was impressive even if a bit cumbersome in crowded traffic. The bird appeared quite comfortable and at home, however.

The Nugent family has held the theatrical boards for years; first as vaudeville players, then in the legitimate, but now in no uncertain ways as writers. "Kempy" was their successful product last year. Their next offering, written and in the main acted by the family, will be "The Dumb-Bell." No agreement can be reached as to just which one or ones wrote the latest play, but sufficient that it involves, J. C. Nugent, the father Elliott, a nice young son, and the two daughters, Norma and Ruth. Their long experience has taught them what the public wants, as evidenced in "Kempy." Hence the interest in the new one.

When the thirty-five ticket sellers of Luna Park, Coney Island, went to their dressing rooms one night, recently, they found Tillie the elephant had made a meal of all their straw hats. Tillie has been reading the breakfast food ads.

CHILD DIES

Funeral services for Christine, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus J. Nichols, of Madisonville, Ky., will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of R. E. Messer, 315, West, with interment in the city cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols formerly lived here.

Unnecessarily Alarmed.

I had been bathing my baby daughter and went into the hall a moment. When I returned I was horror-stricken to see gruesome red streaks over her face and body, and even the water was partly colored. She had reached out and snatched her rag doll, which was dressed in a scarlet frock that was losing fast its fast color. —Chicago Journal.
